

WebRTC is the technology that enables browsers to communicate directly in real time using audio, video, and data marking things like zoom-style video calls and screen sharing possible.

WebRTC is the technology that enables browsers to communicate directly in real time using audio, video, and data marking things like zoom-style video calls and screen sharing possible.